

❖ Introducing Laws, Rules, Agencies

Find out why we considered naming this page “The Kitchen Sink.” Here, in a single comprehensive view, you’ll find all the resources you’ve come to rely on from our Federal Fundamentals and Agency Materials sections. Cross-search across all our federal and legal documents in one fell swoop, including the full US Code, CFR, Federal Register, and data from two dozen federal regulatory and oversight agencies.

Not sure whether you need a rule or a rulemaking release? Looking for any official information on, say, collateralized debt obligations, regardless of the source? With our Laws, Rules, Agencies section, you don’t need to figure out all the details before you begin your search. Just type in your text and go.

The key to this search page is the introduction of dynamic faceting: an easy-to-navigate sidebar shows you the number of results for each data source, helping you refine your search as you go. Or, browse any data source hierarchically simply by clicking on it.

Furthermore, we’ve added new agencies to our already extensive catalog, including the:

- Federal Trade Commission
- US Department of Justice
- Department of Labor
- National Labor Relations Board
- Department of the Interior
- Bureau of Land Management

Finally, we’ve introduced Key Compilations—a feature as familiar as the rest of the page is new and cutting edge. The most up-to-date versions of all foundational laws, regulations, and SRO rules for securities, business, and financial law—including the Acts of ’33, ’34, and ’40—in simple PDF format offer laws and rules right where you need them.
