Advisory Business

Our Firm

Diversified Retirement Corporation¹ (“Diversified”) is a registered investment advisory firm that has been in business since 1992. Diversified is part of the AEGON family of companies, a global leader in pensions. Diversified is an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of AEGON USA, LLC, a financial services holding company whose primary emphasis is on life and health insurance, and annuity and investment products. AEGON USA is owned by AEGON US Holding Corporation, which is owned by Transamerica Corporation. Transamerica Corporation is owned by The AEGON Trust, which is owned by AEGON International B.V., which is owned by AEGON NV, a Netherlands corporation, and a publicly traded international insurance group.

Our Advisory Services

Defined Benefit Plan Asset Allocation Services. Diversified provides a broad range of services to employer plan sponsors of retirement plans. One of these services is the provision of advice to employer plan sponsors with respect to asset allocation for defined benefit pension plans and other pension plans where the employer plan sponsor retains investment discretion. Accordingly, Diversified offers discretionary asset management services under which we determine the allocation of a client’s pension plan assets among collective investment fund options. Diversified also offers a variant of this service in which full discretion is not assigned to Diversified; rather, Diversified makes asset allocation recommendations that are presented to the client for approval prior to implementation. Our advice is limited to providing recommendations relating to a defined benefit plan’s long term asset class mix. We do not provide advice regarding individual securities.

In formulating an asset allocation strategy, Diversified takes into consideration the financial characteristics of each client’s plan, including the level of future plan liabilities. Diversified works with each client to develop an Investment Policy Statement for the plan, and manages a client’s plan in accordance with the Investment Policy Statement and established Investment Guidelines. A client may impose any restrictions on the management of the plan account within these Investment Guidelines.

As of December 31, 2010, Diversified manages $4,317,380,000 in assets on a discretionary basis, and $68,950,000 in assets on a non-discretionary basis.

¹ Effective May 1, 2011, Diversified Investment Advisors, Inc. was renamed Diversified Retirement Corporation.

Investment Education Services. Diversified offers investment education services to certain retirement plan participants who hold retirement accounts with Diversified. These services are designed to educate participants about investment principles and financial planning. Diversified does not provide any advice or recommendations with respect to participants' selection of investments. As part of these educational services, Diversified may provide asset allocation models specifying different allocations among different asset classes (e.g., stocks, bonds, or other assets), so that together the models offer a range of portfolios with different return and risk characteristics. These general educational services are furnished to retirement plan participants as part of a package of recordkeeping, administrative and technical services to the retirement plan sponsor. There is no fee charged to retirement plan participants for these general educational services.

Fees and Compensation

Diversified offers its retirement plan asset allocation advice in a standard package of services, which includes recordkeeping, administrative, communications, and technical services to retirement plans. Fees for discretionary and non-discretionary asset allocation advice are negotiable, and depend on the amount of assets and other factors. Diversified's standard fee schedule for asset allocation advisory services typically ranges from 0.05% to 0.10% on assets. Diversified's fee for advisory services may also be included as part of a bundled fee which includes fees for advisory services, recordkeeping, administration and other services to the defined benefit plan.

Diversified's fees are typically accrued daily and payable monthly in arrears, although clients may from time to time negotiate alternative payment schedules. Diversified will either send an invoice for the payment of the advisory fee, or Diversified may deduct its fee directly from the client's account through the Plan trustee holding client funds as qualified custodian. Diversified will directly deduct advisory fees only when the client has provided written authorization permitting the fees to be paid automatically from the plan's account. You will receive quarterly Trustee account statements which show all disbursements from your account. All statements received from the Plan trustee should be reviewed for accuracy.

Advisory agreements with defined benefit plan clients to provide asset allocation services are terminable by the client at any time and terminable by Diversified after a reasonable notice period which is negotiated with each client. Any fees will be accrued and paid only through the date of termination of the agreement.

Because Diversified's clients invest in mutual funds, collective trusts, or other collective investment vehicles, client accounts will bear the fees of these underlying investment vehicles. Diversified only makes available to clients investment funds that are either "no-load" or that waive any applicable load for retirement plan investors. Diversified or its affiliates may receive administrative, shareholder servicing, sub-transfer agency, and distribution fees from investment funds held in a client's account. These fees are credited within a client's account to reduce any advisory fee (as well as any bundled services fee) payable from the client's account. In certain cases, a client may pay no separate advisory fee, and Diversified will be compensated for its services solely based on various revenues received from proprietary or non-proprietary investment funds held in the client's account. As such, administrative, shareholder servicing, sub-transfer agency and distribution fees from the sale of investment funds provide our primary source of compensation, and in some cases, our exclusive compensation.

Diversified may have an interest in recommending a higher investment allocation to a fund from which it or its affiliates receive revenues. However, we believe this potential conflict of interest is mitigated because: (1) Diversified provides a disclosure statement of all fees it or its affiliates expect to receive from the funds held in the client's account; and (2) Diversified credits any revenues received against the advisory fee, thereby removing the potential incentive to allocate additional assets to an investment fund that pays higher fees to Diversified.

Clients may have the option to purchase investment products that are available on Diversified's retirement plan platform through brokers or agents that are not affiliated with Diversified. However, clients should consider the bundle of asset allocation advice, recordkeeping, administration, communications, and technical services received in relation to purchasing investment products through Diversified's retirement plan platform.

Performance-Based Fees and Side-by-Side Management

Neither Diversified nor any of its advisory personnel charge performance-based fees with respect to the accounts which they manage.

Types of Clients

Diversified's principal business is to provide a broad range of services to employer plan sponsors of retirement plans. Diversified provides limited asset allocation advisory services as part of its bundled retirement plan product, which includes recordkeeping, administrative, communications, and technical services to retirement plans. The minimum dollar amount of assets generally required for the provision of asset allocation advice to pension clients is $2 million.

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies, and Risk of Loss

Diversified provides asset allocation advice solely to pension plan clients that invest in collective investment funds, which may include mutual funds and collective trust funds. Diversified does not provide advice with respect to individual securities.

Diversified works with a pension plan client to develop an Investment Policy Statement for the client which details the investment goals of the client's plan. Based on this Investment Policy Statement, Diversified and the client will establish detailed Investment Guidelines, which set forth the investment funds held in the plan, the approximate target allocation to each asset class (stocks, bonds, real estate, etc.), and an appropriate range above and below the target asset allocation within which the plan's assets may be managed. Based on the Investment Guidelines, Diversified monitors cash flows in and out of the plan and the relative performance of the investment funds within the plan. As necessary based on market fluctuations and plan cash flows, Diversified will re-balance the plan's account to the appropriate target asset allocation range. From time to time, Diversified may recommend that a client's plan maintain an asset allocation that is underweight or overweight to the target for a particular asset class (but within the range established within the guidelines). Recommendations to overweight or underweight a particular asset class are based upon Diversified's analysis of a variety of market factors, including the economy's growth rate, unemployment rates, inflation, and interest rates, among other things.

In formulating an asset allocation strategy, Diversified takes into consideration the long-term nature of the pension's funding obligations. Because of this long-term approach, Diversified does not provide advice with respect to short-term trading strategies. For certain clients, Diversified may recommend a liability-driven investing strategy, which is an investment strategy which manages a client's assets relative to its future pension funding liabilities. In connection with a liability-driven strategy, Diversified may review the most recently available actuarial valuation of the plan as well as information regarding the defined benefit plan's cash flows.

In connection with monitoring investment funds held in a client's plan, Diversified utilizes a variety of third party databases that provide detailed information about investment funds, including performance, fees and expenses, portfolio holdings information, and other statistical analysis. Diversified may also obtain portfolio information and statistical data directly from the investment fund's adviser.

Investing in securities involves the risk of loss. There can be no assurance that a particular plan will meet its investment objectives. Past performance is no guarantee of future results.

Disciplinary Information

During the past ten years, there have been no legal or disciplinary events involving Diversified or its advisory personnel that are material to Diversified's advisory business.

Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Diversified is an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of AEGON USA, LLC. Various direct or indirect subsidiaries of AEGON are engaged in investment advisory, brokerage, banking or insurance businesses. Periodically, Diversified may have material business arrangements with these subsidiaries, including the following subsidiaries.

Diversified Investors Securities Corp. Diversified Investors Securities Corp. ("DISC") is a registered broker-dealer and a wholly-owned subsidiary of Diversified. In the course of providing a full range of investment options to its pension management clients, registered investment products may be sold through DISC, and accordingly, Diversified's employees and agents will be licensed associated persons of DISC as necessary.

Transamerica Financial Advisors, Inc. Transamerica Financial Advisors, Inc. ("TFAI") is a registered broker-dealer and is an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of AEGON. In the course of providing a full range of investment options to its pension management clients, investment products may be sold through TFAI, and accordingly, certain of Diversified's employees and agents will be licensed associated persons of TFAI as necessary.

Transamerica Asset Management, Inc. Transamerica Asset Management, Inc. ("TAM") is an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of AEGON. TAM serves as an investment adviser to a family of mutual funds known as the Transamerica Funds. Diversified may receive payments from TAM, which TAM pays out of its own resources, for provision of retirement plan recordkeeping and other retirement plan administrative services that Diversified provides to retirement plan clients that hold investments in the Transamerica Funds. Transamerica Funds may be held by pension plan clients.

Massachusetts Fidelity Trust Company. Massachusetts Fidelity Trust Company ("MFTC") is an indirect, wholly-owned subsidiary of AEGON. MFTC sponsors collective trust funds for retirement plans. MFTC collective trust funds may be held by pension plan clients.

Transamerica Financial Life Insurance Company. Transamerica Financial Life Insurance Company ("TFLIC") is an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of AEGON, as is Diversified. TFLIC is actively engaged in selling group annuities to be used as funding vehicles for retirement and pension plans. TFLIC products may be held by pension plan clients. In order to market these products, Diversified employees and agents are licensed insurance agents of TFLIC as necessary. These individuals will not receive commissions for the sale of these products to advisory clients.

Transamerica Life Insurance Company. Transamerica Life Insurance Company ("TLIC") is an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of AEGON, as is Diversified. TLIC is engaged in selling group annuities to be used as funding vehicles for retirement and pension plans. TLIC products may be held by pension plan clients. In order to market these products, Diversified employees and agents are licensed insurance agents of TLIC as necessary. These individuals will not receive commissions for the sale of these products to advisory clients.

Diversified Actuarial Services, Inc. Diversified Actuarial Services, Inc. ("DAS") is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Diversified and, indirectly, a wholly-owned subsidiary of AEGON. DAS provides actuarial and general consulting services to defined benefit retirement plan clients.

Prisma Capital Partners LP. Prisma Capital Partners LP ("Prisma") is an SEC-registered investment adviser that manages limited partnerships or limited liability companies. Defined benefit plan clients may invest in these limited partnerships or limited liability companies.

Diversified or its affiliates are subject to potential conflicts of interest if proprietary mutual funds, insurance company accounts, or collective trust funds sponsored by AEGON affiliates are included as investment options in a retirement plan where asset allocation services are offered to the retirement plan sponsor. Diversified may have an interest in recommending a higher investment allocation to a proprietary fund from which it or its affiliates receive revenues. In addition, Diversified or its affiliates may receive administrative services fees, shareholder servicing fees, distribution or other fees from non-proprietary mutual funds available within a retirement plan. Diversified may also have an interest in recommending a higher investment allocation to such a fund. For defined benefit clients, investment advisory fees, shareholder servicing or sub-transfer agency fees from investment funds held in a client's account serve to reduce any advisory fee payable from the client's account, thereby mitigating these potential conflicts of interest.

Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Diversified has adopted a code of ethics (the "Code") under Rule 204A-1 under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, which sets forth certain restrictions and standards of conduct for Diversified's advisory personnel. While the Code permits such employees to invest in securities that may be held or acquired by Diversified's advisory clients, it prohibits specific types of personal securities transactions that may give rise to substantial conflicts of interest. It also establishes reporting requirements through which certain employees provide information to Diversified on their personal securities transactions. More generally, the Code prohibits any employees from taking inappropriate advantage of his or her position with Diversified and provides that Diversified may sanction employees who violate the Code. Any client or prospective client may obtain a copy of the Code (without charge) by calling 800-755-5801 or writing to us at Diversified, 440 Mamaroneck Avenue, Harrison, New York 10528.

Diversified or its advisory personnel may invest in the same collective investment funds that are held in client accounts. As this may present a conflict of interest, Diversified maintains procedures in order to ensure compliance with its fiduciary responsibilities. Diversified advisory personnel shall not buy or sell collective investment funds for their personal portfolio(s) where their decision is substantially derived, in whole or in part, by reason of his or her employment unless the information is also available to the investing public on reasonable inquiry. Diversified advisory personnel may not prefer their own interest to that of the advisory client. Diversified maintains a list of all securities transactions of advisory personnel. These holdings are reviewed on a regular basis by the Compliance Department personnel.

Diversified may buy or sell, or may direct or recommend that one client buy or sell, investment funds of the same kind that are purchased or sold for another client. In addition, Diversified may, at any time, rebalance asset allocation in one direction for an account, and rebalance in a different direction, or not rebalance an account at all, due to differences in investment strategy or client direction.

As described above under “Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations,” Diversified may also be subject to a conflict of interest if clients invest in investment funds that are sponsored or advised by affiliates.

Brokerage Practices

Transactions in investment funds are executed either directly with the applicable fund family or through a broker-dealer that is a member of the National Securities Clearing Corporation ("NSCC"). In either case, no commissions are payable from client accounts to broker-dealers utilized in effecting fund transactions.

Review of Accounts

Asset allocation services to pension plan clients are reviewed on an ongoing basis and, specifically, when new investments are made, taking into account the investment and economic environment and the characteristics and objectives of clients' portfolios. Such asset allocation accounts are reviewed by Bill Noyes, Vice President. The number of accounts assigned to each individual will not exceed the number which would compromise the reasonable standards established by Diversified.

Pension plan asset allocation clients receive quarterly written statements and regular reports on general economic and investment issues. Items reviewed include portfolio performance, clients' risks and needs, market outlook and overall investment strategy.

Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Not applicable.

Custody

Diversified will send you an invoice for the payment of advisory fees, or we will deduct the advisory fee directly from the plan's account through the plan trustee holding the plan's funds. Diversified is deemed to have limited custody over funds held in client accounts, but we do not hold physical custody of any of these funds. Funds are held with the plan trustee, which is a bank trust company, broker-dealer, or other independent qualified custodian. You will receive Trust account statements at least quarterly. Clients should carefully review account statements for accuracy.

Investment Discretion

Diversified does not currently accept discretionary authority to provide asset allocation advice on behalf of new clients. For existing discretionary clients, Diversified requires written authority to determine which investment funds are bought or sold and the amounts thereof. In this written authority statement, all limitations on the discretionary authority, if any, are defined.

Voting Client Securities

Diversified does not accept authority to vote proxies on investment funds held in client accounts. Clients will directly receive any proxy solicitation materials relating to an investment fund from the plan's trustee, and will be responsible for voting on behalf of the client's plan. While Diversified does not provide advice with a particular solicitation, Diversified is available to respond to questions and assist the client with obtaining any relevant information from the applicable investment fund family.

Financial Information

We are not subject to any financial condition that is reasonably likely to impair or ability to meet our commitments to clients.
