Advisory Business

Firm Description

Hays Investment Advisors (HIA) was founded in 2002. HIA provides service to qualified and non-qualified retirement plans including 401(k) plans, 403(b) plans, pension and profit sharing plans, cash balance plans, and deferred compensation plans. As an Accredited Investment Fiduciary, HIA makes sure companies are using the right process to meet their fiduciary responsibility set by ERISA Section 404(c). Using Fi360’s defined 22 step fiduciary process, HIA helps the ERISA Section 3(16) plan administrator establish an Investment Committee and develop an Investment Policy that sets the path to follow and what specific parameters that need to be used to select, monitor and replace investment options. HIA also educates employees on why they need to use their plan and how to allocate their assets to best meet their specific goals and objectives.

Principal Owners

James C. Hays is a 100% stockholder.

Types of Advisory Services

1) Limited Scope 3(21) Fiduciary. HIA typically acts as a limited scope 3(21) fiduciary that can advise, help and assist plan sponsors with their investment decisions. The plan sponsor is still ultimately responsible for the decisions made in their plan, though using HIA can help mitigate that plan sponsor’s liability by following a diligent process.

2) 3(38) Investment Manager. HIA can also act as an ERISA 3(38) Investment Manager in which it has discretionary management and control of a given retirement plan’s assets. HIA would then become solely responsible and liable for the selection, monitoring and replacement of the plan’s investment options.

Asset Management

HIA typically sets up four risk-based, asset allocation portfolios for each retirement plan client. These portfolios are titled Professionally Managed Accounts (PMA’s) and are tailored to each respective investment committee’s desired range of plan participant’s risk level. This helps guide the plan participant to more efficiently achieve their individual needs and goals. The following are the basic tenets that guide HIA in making investment recommendations and in managing the PMA’s.

(1) Modern Portfolio Theory, as recognized by the 1990 Nobel Prize, will be the primary influence driving the way a client’s assets are intended to be structured and how subsequent decisions will be made. The underlying concepts of Modern Portfolio Theory include:

- Investors are risk averse. The only acceptable risk is that which is adequately compensated by potential portfolio returns.
➢ Markets are efficient. It is virtually impossible to know ahead of time the direction of the market as a whole or any individual asset class. It is, therefore, unlikely that any individual asset class will succeed in consistently “beating the market.”

➢ The portfolio as a whole is more important than any individual asset class. The appropriate allocation of capital among asset classes (stocks, bonds, cash, etc.) will have far more influence on long-term portfolio results than the selection of an individual asset class. Investing for the long-term becomes critical to investment success because it allows the long-term characteristics of the asset classes to surface.

➢ For every risk level, there exists an optimal combination of asset classes that will maximize returns. A diverse set of asset classes will be selected to help minimize risk. The proportionality of the mix of asset classes will determine the long-term risk and return characteristics of the portfolio as a whole.

➢ Portfolio risk can be decreased by increasing diversification and by lowering the correlation of market behavior among the asset classes selected.

(2) Investing globally helps to minimize overall portfolio risk due to the imperfect correlation between economies of the world. Investing globally has been shown historically to enhance portfolio returns, although there is no guarantee that it will do so in the future.

(3) Stocks offer the potential for higher long-term investment returns than cash or fixed income investments. However, stocks are more volatile in their performance. Investors seeking higher rates of return must increase the proportion of stocks in their portfolio, while at the same time accepting greater variation of results (including occasional declines in value).

(4) Picking individual asset classes and timing the purchase or sale of these investments in order to “beat the market” are highly unlikely to increase long-term investment returns and therefore should be avoided.

(5) Lastly, the basic underlying approach to Hays Investment Advisors’ investment management is the optimization of the risk-return relationship appropriate to client’s needs and goals. This will be accomplished by using a globally diverse portfolio including a variety of asset classes of mutual funds and/or managed portfolios to “buy and hold” the selected securities and periodically re-optimize (rebalance).

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis
HIA uses a variety of broad economic indicators that are used to gauge an overall level and direction of the economy. This macro view, along with more specific micro data, then helps assist in setting an overall asset allocation strategy and more specifically, the risk based strategic allocations for the PMA’s.

Examples of analysis used include:

1. GDP Level and Growth Rate
2. Employment Growth and Unemployment Rate
3. Interest Rates-Historical levels, Current Monetary Policy, and Futures Indications
4. Corporate Profits-Level and Quarterly/Annual Growth Rates, and consensus IBES/S&P 1-year forward estimates and long-term 3-5 year estimates.

Hays Investment Advisors
5. Yield Spreads - levels and changes across broad bond sectors
6. Inflation-Consumer and Producer Price Inflation Indexes as well as the ECRI Future Inflation Gauge (FIG).
7. Consumer Spending-current and forecasted growth for forward 1-year
8. Business Investment-current and forecasted growth for forward 1-year
9. Leading Economic Indicators-The Conference Board, the Economic Cycle Research Institute (ECRI) and Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) leading economic indicators will be reviewed to gauge future direction of domestic and global economy.
11. External Risks-Geopolitical and Regulatory risks that could impact markets.

HIA utilizes Morningstar Direct, the FI360 toolkit, along with several other sources to obtain much of the information listed above.
