

What's Great—What's New—What's on the Horizon

Volume III, Spring 2013

What's Great?

Knowledge Mosaic is now part of the LexisNexis® family

You'll notice a new look at Knowledge Mosaic®—design, colors, logos, etc.—but you'll have the same great user experience and customer support. And now we'll be able to leverage the considerable resources of LexisNexis. We're excited by all the opportunities! We hope you are too.

"Share this search" available on the SEC Filings page

Send your SEC Filings query parameters to a colleague who can load your search with a single click.

Batch download

From your Document Cart, select multiple documents to stash as individual PDF files in a zip folder you can save to your desktop, flash drive or wherever.

What's New?

Enhancements to industry filter on SEC Filings page

Now enter your key words, e.g., textiles, mining or surgical instruments, to find the right industry code. Then select what you need from the suggested matches on the SIC and NAICS code search boxes. Or, to search more broadly, choose from the pull-down menu of industry labels, e.g., technology & telecom. We've mapped filer SIC codes to these easy-to-use descriptive labels.

Search filter on Emerging Growth Companies

The 2012 JOBS Act designates a new category of public company, the Emerging Growth Company. A company declaring "EGC" status has a substantially lighter regulatory burden—even the option to submit an IPO confidentially. On the Knowledge Mosaic SEC Filings page, use our new EGC filter to narrow your results to filings made by those companies.

Boolean syntax added to four search pages

On four search pages—Laws, Rules, & Agency Materials; SEC Comment Letters; Model Business Documents; and Law Firm Memos—you can now develop a word search using Boolean or "natural language" syntax. Boolean offers operators such as AND, OR, and NOT, plus you can organize or "nest" phrases using parentheses. With natural language, you just enter words or phrases, e.g., as with Google™ search.
